

Human Rights Council

Study Guide

The ongoing issue of interracial hate, misunderstanding and inequality

The ongoing issue of interracial hate, misunderstanding and inequality is a problem, that has existed for centuries. It isn't an issue of just a few states, but rather an issue of how the world in its entirety was shaped. Nowadays thousands of people still live in segregation or fear or they have fled their country to escape such injustice, thus making this a problem of international concern. Racism and intolerance continue to cause conflicts and undermine peace and security. Like every human rights issue, racism throws in up the critical protection needs of those affected by it, and those most vulnerable to it. It is critical to spare no effort in taking up the gauntlet to respond to the challenges of racism and intolerance in all corners of the world.